Railroad Lyrics.

AIR-"Comin' through the rye." If an engine meet an engine "Coming round a corve,"

If they smash track, train and tender,
What do they deserve?

Not a penny's pay to any, So far as we observe, But all acquit the engineer, When "coming round a curve."

If an engine meet a steamer "Coming through the draw."

If they crush or drown the public, Need we go to law? If the engineer was careless—
P'raps he's rather raw—
They don't discharge an honest fellow,
"Coming through the draw."

If a steamer chase a steamer, "Running up to time,"

If they burst their pipes and boiler,
Where's the mighty crime?

Should the jury in a fury,
Make them pay one dime,
Or send the officers to prison,

Running up to time?"

If they maim or kill a body, Or a body's wife,
Need a body ue a body.
For bagga e, limb or life?
If you sue for d mages, For pay for what y u've lost, ou get a broken neck or leg, And have to meet the cost

Buy only what you need, Young persons, when they start in life in the family relation, require some guidance lest they move too fast. Ordinarily speaking, the young husband will be sufficiently industrious, and the young wife sufficiently active. There is a positive pleasure which they each feel in the labor assigned them, for they are working for each other's bappiness and comfort. They are young and strong and healthful. Employment furnishes a zest to the enownent of each other's society, for "love makes labor pleasure." > Horse Breaking for the Harness -Before the forse is attached to any vehicle, the harness should be allowed to remain on him in the stable several hours during two or three days; he should be led out so that he may become thoroughly accustomed to the trappings, and a cord six or seven feet in length should be fastened to each trace. With this the horse is quietly led about, one man performing that duty, while another follows, holding the aforesaid cords, which, as the animal moves forward, are to be strained so that he feels a slight pressure of the collar upon his shoulders. The intention of this treatment must be obvious; if the horse is alarmed by the effect of the collar, the man holding the cords which are affixed to the traces, can instantly relax them; and again, when he finds his pupil is reconciled, he may renew a moderate strain, and finally as much resistance as he has power to create. By this means the most timid horse will gain confidence, and by perseverance,
